European integration developed from the ashes of World War II, a means of rebuilding economies and preventing future wars. This process has developed into the current European Union, one of the most unique political actors in the world today. This course examines the history, institutions, political processes, and policies of the European Union. Understanding the EU is a complicated matter – it is part international organization, part national government, but not fully either. In order to understand this complexity, the first part of the course will review the history of European integration to understand how a continent ravaged by the most vicious wars in history during the first half of the 20th century was able to politically and economically unite in the second half. Parts II and III of the course will examine the core institutions and policies of the EU. In Part IV we will explore the role that the EU will play in 21st century world affairs. Finally, we will delve into the main challenges facing Europe in the near term.

READINGS: The main text for the course will be John McCormick, The European Union: Politics and Policies, 3rd Edition. We will also be reading Robert Kagan, Of Paradise and Power: American and Europe in the New World Order and Marc Leonard, Why Europe Will Run the 21st Century. All three are available for purchase in the Rose bookstore. Other assigned readings will either be handed out or available through the Logan Library journal article search engines as indicated in the syllabus below.

You are also expected to keep abreast of European current events. The most accessible source for EU information is the BBC’s website (news.bbc.co.uk). Publications specializing in the EU include the EU Observer (euobserver.com) and the European Voice (www.european-voice.com). British newspapers will also have more extensive coverage of the EU than the American press. Your best bets are The Economist (www.economist.com) The Guardian (www.guardian.co.uk), The Times (www.timesonline.co.uk), and The Financial Times (news.ft.com).

COURSE REQUIREMENTS: Your grade will be based on the following:

(A) Two Exams (25% each) on December 22 and January 19. Exams will include a mix of objective and analytical questions drawn from both the readings and the lectures.
(B) Critical Review of the Kagan and Leonard Books (25%). For this paper you will write a compare and contrast analysis of two books dealing with the crucial question of the role of Europe in the 21st century. Your paper will be due on Monday, January 15th, prior to our discussion of these books in class. However, you will have an opportunity to revise and resubmit your paper after our discussions. Revised papers are due on Friday, February 9th. Full details of the assignment will be handed out separately.

(C) Final Exam (25%) Date/Time TBA. This will be an all essay exam focused on incorporating material from throughout the course of the term to understand the key processes and outcomes of European integration.

COURSE POLICIES: The following policies apply unless otherwise stated.

Cheating: You are expected to abide by the terms of the Institute’s Honor Code, which states that: “Plagiarism is taking the words or ideas of another and presenting them as your own. Cheating is making use of any assistance on an examination, assignment, or other class project (including written reference materials, help from other students, etc.) beyond that authorized by the professor.” Penalties for academic misconduct are at the discretion of the professor and can range from the loss of all credit on an assignment to a formal hearing before the Institute’s Rules and Discipline Committee. It is incumbent upon you to know what constitutes academic misconduct and make sure to avoid it. If you are in any way unsure about what constitutes a violation, please ask me. Claiming ignorance after the fact is not a valid excuse. Think rationally; the risks outweigh the gains.

Late Assignments: Extensions for exams or assignments will only be given if you have a legitimate excuse AND you contact me in advance. All projects that are late will receive a letter grade reduction for each day, including weekend days, which they are late. You can reach me via e-mail, voicemail, or by dropping a note in either my campus or HSS mailbox. Short of being in a coma, you should be able to reach me if there is a problem. (PLEASE NOTE: I do not accept assignments via e-mail attachments.) I am very accommodating to those who alert me to a problem in advance; I will be far less friendly if you approach me after the fact.

Ideological Perspectives: Being a political scientist, I obviously have strong beliefs about political issues. However, my goal is not to indoctrinate you into my beliefs, but rather to allow you to think critically about political issues. The issues we will be exploring are inherently contentious and seldom amenable to objectively right or wrong answers (although there are questions of accurately or inaccurately representing the views of the authors that we will be reading). That being said, there are good and bad arguments. You may hold any opinion you wish, but your arguments must be logically sound and supported by the available evidence.

More importantly, I can only facilitate the learning process; I cannot force knowledge into your heads. You are all adults fully capable of being responsible students and active learners. That means that if you do not understand something you need to take the initiative to find out the answer -- raise your hand, talk to me after class, come to my office. I cannot read minds, so it is up to you to try to seek clarity when it is lacking!
